

Not Good Enough

It's funny how
Despite the fact that you are so enchanting
You remain by yourself
Because you choose that path
For some strange reason
No one can break through to your heart
Not with looks
Not with acts of devotion
Or enticing conversation
No one is good enough
No, not for you
Each person who dares tread cross your path
Gets labeled with an expiration date
That you stick with
And I expired a long time ago
For reasons unbeknownst to me
Except for the fact
That I
Wasn't good enough
For you
But neither will the next man be
Good enough
Nor the next ones after that
Yet what hurts the most
Is that the torch has been passed
Now because of you
No one will ever
EVER
Be good enough for me